TEXT :

Kateb Yacine, who was born in Constantine in 1929, is an Algerian writer. He was born into a scholarly Chaoui Berber family from the modern Sedrata in wilaya of Souk Ahras. His grandfather was a deputy judge and his father was a lawyer. Young Kateb attended the Sedrata Quran school in 1937, then in 1938 the French school in Little Kabylie. In 1941, he enrolled in the colonial secondary school of Setif.

He is considered one of the greatest figures of Arabic literature whose life and work are marked by commitment. He is a well known poet, novelist and playwright who published his first collection of poetry in 1946. Yacine devoted himself to renew the Algerian theater in spoken Arabic. Thus, he wrote and edited plays in popular Arabic. He died in 1989 in Grenoble.

In 1986 he received the Price of French letters. It is now considered as the founder of modern French-language North African literature.
