My First Term English Examination

Text

Afaf Raed Sharif's speech at the Arab Reading Challenge Award ceremony in Dubai

'I dedicate my victory to Palestine'

Afaf Raed Sharif, 17, from Palestine

(…)I feel happy and proud because this is something I have wanted to contribute to my nation. I hope I can reach more top positions so I can dedicate them for Palestine. I believe Palestine deserves a lot from us. My victory today is as a result of my confidence in myself and in my talents. My victory also comes as a result of my parent's support. My mother raised me while teaching me how to read (…) thanks to efforts I have reached the first place.

I read 50 books this year for the competition and more than 60 books in my life. The competition helped me to become more determined towards reaching my goals and made me more confident. We need such initiatives in the Arab world. (...) I also have an ambition to study medicine so that I can treat the people of their wounds and pain.
