Child labour refers to the use of children as a source of labour while depriving them of their fundamental rights_ in the process. Such rights include the opportunity to enjoy their childhood, attend school regularly have peace of mind and live a dignified life.

Worldwide, as many as 152 million children have jobs. They earn a few cents an hour and they simply do not have enough time to go to school and improve their future prospects. 72 million children are forced to work in dangerous and unhealthy conditions. These children are forced to work in plantations, mines, factories, as domestic slaves and as prostitutes. They perform exhausting work for many hours in a row, often in unhealthy and hazardous conditions. The work is physically, psychologically and morally harmful for children.

poverty often leads to child labour. Parents regard their children as additional sources of income. It is a huge problem especially in developing countries where_ parents are unable to generate income due to the lack of employment opportunities_War, migration and discrimination against minorities also leads to child labour_High school costs of education is another cause of child labour_.To_many parents who live in abject poverty priority is given to providing food for the family_because education is too expensive to afford especially when there are many children to pay school fees for_.Instead of letting children stay at home because there is lack of money to send them to school parents opt to have them working as unskilled labourer to help support the family _.

Child labour robs minors of the opportunity to enjoy their childhood, go to school, and have a decent shot at success. It is not just an affront to the rights of a child but also a symbol of a society that has lost its way_.We should therefore all strive to ensure that the fundamental rights of children are protected and that they are accorded the opportunity to go after their dreams and aspirations. The future is much brighter when the younger generation has good foundation for success_
