Text:

The Colosseum, also named the Flavian theater, is an oval amphitheatre in the centre of the city of Rome, Italy. It is the largest ancient amphitheatre ever built, and is still the largest standing amphitheatre in the world today, despite its age.

It was built between 70 and 72 A.D. by the emperor Vespasian as a gift for the Roman people to enjoy wrestling and gladiatorial competitions.

This massive building measured approximately 189 by 156 meters as an area and 48 m as a height, towering four stories high, and including eighty entrance doors. the Colosseum could hold more than 50,000 spectators at its maximum capacity.

A series of earthquakes during the fifth century A.D. damaged the structure, and by the 20th century, nearly two-thirds of the original building were destroyed. But, it is still beautiful and it is one of modern-day Rome's most popular tourist attractions, hosting millions of visitors every year.
