Third Term Exam

Text:

The Environment

In our modern world, there are many factors that place the wellbeing of the planet in danger. We must take into consideration of these causes that place our environment as well as the planet Earth in danger.

Global warming or climate change is a major contributing factor to environmental damage. Because of global warming, we have seen an increase in melting ice caps, a rise in sea levels, a decrease in natural resources and the formation of new weather patterns. These have caused stronger storms, droughts, and flooding in places that they did not occur in the past.

In many areas, people and local governments do not use their natural resources. Mining for natural gases, deforestation, and even improper use of water resources can have dangerous effects on the environment. However, these strategies attempt to boost local economies but their effects can lead to oil spills, interrupted animal habitats, and droughts.

Finally, the effects of the modern world on the environment can lead to many problems. Human beings must consider the consequences of their actions, trying to reduce, reuse, and recycle materials while establishing environmentally sustainable habits. Measures should be taken to protect the environment; we mustn't cause the extinction of more endangered species. Worldwide pollution has affected our planet and can make it a completely uninhabitable one.
